

Separate males from females

Prevent the transporter from contaminating the rest of the animals when collecting the males